Dropping in: Tottenham town centre manager Christopher Lane presents Prince Charles with an 'I Love Tottenham' badge during last week's visit

Royal couple return to borough for catch-up

BUSINESSES in Tottenham received some royal visitors last week.

The Prince of Wales and the Duchess of Cornwall visited shops and stores in the area to see how they are recovering from the riots in August last year.

Prince Charles and his wife began their visit at the site of the new post office after the old building was destroyed during the riots, meeting representatives from Haringey Council and MP David Lammy to talk about how renovation work is being carried out with the help of the Prince's charities.

Visiting the Pride of Tottenham pub, the Prince and Duchess met Kay Horne, from Sainsbury's, who is on secondment as a "business connector" to Business in the Community, with particular responsibility for the Tottenham area.

Kay has been working with local organisations, businesses and Tottenham residents to regenerate the area's high road after it was badly hit by the riots.

During their visit, Charles and Camilla met traders and shopkeepers who had been affected by the riots and heard about their personal experiences during and after the disturbances.

The Prince's Regeneration Trust is working to regenerate the area and is involved in a project to restore 693 High Road, a landmark building in the community that was damaged during the riots.

While the Prince attended a meeting to see how his charities can carry out further work in Tottenham, the Duchess met residents who had been affected by the riots.

She had met some of the residents when the couple visited Tottenham shortly after the riots.

Looter sentenced

A TEENAGER at the centre of looting in Wood Green during the August riots last year has been jailed for 18 months.

Aj Nnamdi, of Newnham Mews, Wood Green, was sentenced at Wood Green Crown Court on Friday after pleading guilty to three counts of burglary.

The 18-year-old was involved in the looting in The Mall, Shopping City, on August 7 2011, getting away with clothing and jewellery from three shops.

Nnamdi was identified on CCTV carrying a yellow-handled hammer in Hype Menswear. The hammer was found in his wardrobe when he was arrested in December.

Samples of Nnamdi's blood were found by crime scene examiners at both Mush Clothing and A&C Jewellery.

Operation Withern's Detective Constable Chris Ladmore said: "The sheer hard work of officers who worked tirelessly, trawling through hours of CCTV footage, ensured that the weight of evidence against Nnamdi was such that he pleaded guilty."

Four injured after shooting incident

FOUR men needed hospital treatment after an incident in South Tottenham at the weekend.

Police were called to Lawrence Road at 6am on Sunday to reports of shots being fired.

One man is currently in hospital in a stable condition after suffering a gunshot wound, while two others suffered stab wounds and are in a serious condition.

A fourth man was discharged from hospital after receiving treatment for head injuries. All the victims are aged in their 20s and 30s.

Officers from Trident are investigating and appealing to anyone who was in the area at the time of the incident to contact Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

OFFICIALS at Alexandra Palace were celebrating after securing £320,000 in funding from English Heritage.

The money will enable urgent repair works to be carried out on the iconic Grade II listed building.

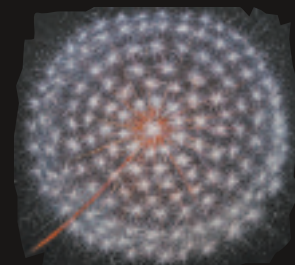

Primarily, the funding will be used to repair Alexandra Palace's South Terrace, the roof of its Victorian Theatre and parts of the building next to the ice rink, which was itself given a £2.3million refurbishment last year.

In addition, it will be used to fund Alexandra Palace's conservation management plan.

Matt Cooke, chairman of Alexandra Park and Palace's Trust, said: "Although in the very early stages of regenerating this magnificent heritage property, with further investment and careful stewardship we are very optimistic that we will be able to achieve our ultimate goal to develop and enhance this fantastic cultural destination and resource for the local community, Londoners and visitors from across the world."

Police 'raise their game' in battle to tackle gang crime

By Mary McConnell

ENFIELD will have its own group of officers dedicated to tackling gang crime within the borough, the Metropolitan Police announced last week.

According to borough commander Simon Laurence, there will be 20 officers in Enfield working under the new Trident Gang Crime Command, which was launched in Trafalgar Square last Wednesday.

Under the new operation there will be a total of 1,000 officers – half working centrally and half tackling gang crime within the 19 London boroughs – including Enfield – thought to have the worst gang problems.

It means that Trident, which previously had 450 officers working centrally, will now have more than twice the manpower.

Mr Laurence said the move would make it easier to keep track of, and crack down on, gang activity.

"Using local information we will be relentlessly pursuing gangs and gang members," he said. "But we will also be working to prevent young people from joining them in the first place."

Mark Rowley, head of the Met's Specialist Crime and Operations directorate, said at last week's launch: "We are under no illusion that enforcement alone will not be enough to tackle the problem. It is a conveyor-belt approach and we are only at the very end of the belt. The long-term solution is about stopping people getting involved in gangs and it is about the individual boroughs doing their bit as well. But this is us saying we are raising our game."

Mr Rowley said that across London one in seven rapes, half of shootings, a fifth of stabbings and 22 per cent of serious violence are carried out by gang members. Trident was first formed in 2000 to tackle gun crime in the Jamaican community in the capital. The operation was expanded to cover all gun crime four years later and is now set to cover all gang-linked crimes.

In Enfield, police say increasing numbers of women are becoming involved in gangs. According to Enfield Council girl gang members could be targeted in their new "call-in" project, piloted at the start of the month.

End 'wall of silence' – pleads mother of teen killed by youths

THE mother of 15-year-old Negus McClean, who was killed by a gang of youths in Edmonton last year, called for an end to the "wall of silence" as the new Trident unit was launched last week.

The teenager was killed in April in Westminster Road following a row over a mobile phone. It is thought that around seven young men on bicycles chased Negus and his younger brother before attacking him.

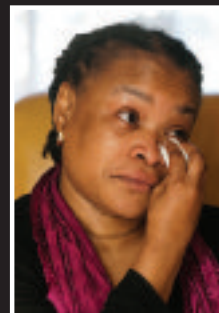

Police officers have arrested 16 people in connection with the killing, but no one has been charged.

Ingrid Adams, 44, said: "My son went for a bike ride with his brother and he didn't come home. It can happen to anybody and it has happened again since, that's why people need to talk."

"[Those with information] need to come forward, they need to tell the police. It needs to stop, this wall of silence. I know they know. They know I know."

Ms Adams said the police needed to target youngsters of primary school age if they wanted to fight the culture of distrust among London's youths.

"I go to bed thinking about Negus and I wake up thinking about Negus," she added. "We just miss him. I hope nobody goes through what me and my family are going through. It's eternal, it's not going to get better – Negus is never going to come back."

Tragedy: Ingrid Adams' son was killed last year

Armed with ideas: Nick de Bois MP (centre) organised the jobs fair held at Southbury Leisure Centre

Jobseekers battle through snow for a chance to work

By Ruth McKee

MORE than 1,600 jobseekers battled snowy conditions for a chance to apply for one of the 300 jobs on offer at the Enfield Jobs Fair last Friday.

The fair was the brainchild of Conservative Enfield North MP Nick de Bois, who organised it in an attempt to tackle rising employment figures.

Around 500 people crammed into the Southbury Leisure Centre when the Mayor Of London Boris Johnson opened the event on Friday morning.

He said: "It's amazing to see the energy and excitement of young people who came here today to get jobs and apprenticeships."

The fair attracted a mix of the long-term unemployed and people interested in training and learning opportunities.

Nicole Perryman, 22, works part-time in a restaurant but came to the jobs fair when she heard about it in the job centre. "I'm looking for anything really – but it's tough," she admitted. "I just spoke to someone from Tesco who said they'd had 2,000 applications for just one position. But I feel a bit better about things now that I at least work part-time, I think I'm more hopeful now."

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

'Amazed by event's energy': Mayor Of London Boris Johnson attended the jobs fair

Mr de Bois revealed why promoting training and employment opportunities are so close to his heart. He said: "As an MP I can't create jobs, but I can put people together with employers."

"In 1980 I left technical college with a HND and I was facing a recession. I just wanted to get any job to get into the work pattern and I got some breaks to set up my own business."

Theresa Sefain, 40, revealed she came to the fair because she was interested in the training opportunities it offered. "I want something to expand and improve myself – I always seek to learn something wherever I work."

Kelly Vella, a next-step adviser from the National Career Service, said people looking for work should think about what interests them before applying for jobs: "We always ask customers what are they able to do, what they are open to doing, what they can do now and what they want to do in the future."

"If you're job-hunting you should really look at your abilities – people always underestimate themselves and the skills they have," she added.

As well as the 300 jobs on offer at employers' stalls Job Centre Plus had 560 jobs available on the day and the London Apprenticeship Service had details for around 100 apprenticeships.

Union warns of redundancies over college's £3.7million funding cuts

ONE of the UK's largest colleges is slashing its budget by 17 per cent, which a leading teaching union has warned will lead to huge job losses.

The College of Haringey, Enfield and North East London has centres at sites in Tottenham and Enfield and currently caters for 20,000 students. But the future of the college has been thrown into doubt after managers announced funding cuts totalling £3.7million.

The University and College Union has condemned the college's management for slashing the budget for the fifth year in a row.

UCU branch secretary Sonia Kobal is worried that the cuts will inevitably lead to widespread redundancies.

"If last year many members of our teaching staff left through voluntary redundancy, what will this year bring? Compulsory redundancies?" she said.

"Our members deserve better. What we demand is a better-funded college that is able to respond positively to the needs of the local population. We believe that the government is wrong to cut our funding at a time when people need to re-train or need to go back into education while the jobs market is in a state of disarray. It does not make sense and this is a clear overall attack on the public sector."

The college has tried to calm union fears over job losses. A college spokeswoman said: "We are currently planning how to implement the funding reductions for next year."

"The allocation for adult learning has been reduced by £2.2m and for young people we are anticipating a reduction of £1.5m. It is still too early to see what the impact will be on jobs. Any posts that now become vacant will be reviewed and where appropriate be filled by temporary staff," she added.

Cutting costs: The College of Haringey, Enfield and North East London

School expands to a second site

By Mary McConnell

PARENTS in Edmonton are being invited to apply for places at a school which opened for reception-age children last month.

St Matthew's Primary School, which has its main base in South Street, Ponders End, has branched out to a second site at St John's Church, in Dysons Road, Edmonton.

At present there are only eight children in the new class and there are places for 22 more four and five-year-olds.

Headteacher Stefan Roos said the school was asked to open the new site by the council in a bid to tackle the shortage of primary-school places in Edmonton.

There is one building on the St John's site, currently being used for the reception class. Construction of further classrooms in the grounds is under way and will be finished by September. The vicarage and the church hall will also be converted into school buildings ready for the start of the new school year, making five classrooms in total.

"The way we are setting up the school is quite exciting," said Mr Roos. "This is going to be a concrete-free school and there will be no hard-surface playground. It is all in a natural setting which you won't necessarily be able to see from the outside."

"The children at the new site will not be isolated, there will be links with other schools nearby. We are getting hot lunches delivered and there will be a minibus to pick children up and take them to our Ponders End site if they want to take part in after-school activities including football, cooking and netball."

St John's will continue as a functioning parish church. However, with a small congregation the church's additional buildings were not needed.

The youth club which has been using the church hall is to move to another location.

Sarah pops the question on TV

By Ruth McKee

VALENTINE'S Day has a little extra sparkle this year for one couple whose dramatic engagement riveted TV viewers on Monday night.

Sarah Mead, 28, of Millicent Grove, Palmers Green, proposed to her fiancé in the most dramatic and public way possible on January 21 – but her family and friends had to wait until this week for the full story of the couple's unconventional engagement when 70 people gathered for a screening of the BBC3 programme Don't Tell The Bride: The Proposals.

After deciding that she would propose to 28-year-old builder Stuart Taylor, Sarah approached the television production company after seeing an appeal on Twitter for volunteers.

She convinced her boyfriend of seven years to take part in the show by tricking him into believing it was just a relationship programme – and the shy Stuart agreed to take part in the programme only because he thought the company was laying on a trip to the London Aquarium.

However, the aquarium was not a TV jolly – but the venue for Sarah's marriage proposal.

"I put clues all around the aquarium saying things like 'look behind you' – and that was when it clicked with him that it wasn't just another part of the filming."

The outgoing Year 6 teacher at Bowes Primary School revealed why she wanted to use the excuse of a leap year to propose to Stuart.

"I thought: 'I get to choose my own ring and I get to have the engagement that I want'," she giggled.

Surprise proposal:
Sarah Mead and
Stuart Taylor

The proposal came as a complete surprise to Stuart. "He was really shocked but he told me afterwards he was a little bit disappointed that he didn't get to propose to me," added Sarah.

The couple have not set a date yet but Sarah hinted that anyone needing to buy a hat should do so by May 2014.

The full story of Sarah's nerve-wracking proposal can still be viewed on the BBC iPlayer.

CHOOSE IN THE COMFORT OF YOUR OWN HOME!

By Rebecca Sheppard

PUPILS have been awarded 4,500 tickets to the London Olympics – and this means that one in eight schoolchildren from the age of ten from the borough will be able to go to the Games this summer for free.

Enfield's enthusiasm for the Olympics has been noted by Lord Coe, the chairman of the organising committee, and Mayor of London Boris Johnson, who says that "the response from schools across Enfield has been extraordinary".

The borough was the first and only one in the country in which 100 per cent of schools signed up to Schools top 2012 list as free Olympic tickets are awarded the London 2012 education programme before the deadline.

By embracing the scheme, Enfield pupils across nearly 100 schools have won a chance to meet Olympic stars, as well as securing tickets to the Games and the Paralympics.

Ayfer Orhan, Enfield Council's cabinet member for schools and children's services, is delighted by the number of Enfield students undertaking voluntary activities in the build-up to the Games including stewarding and contributing to the Enfield Festival.

"Our schools have been encouraged by school sports officers to get behind the Olympics with a real passion," she said. "This is a once-in-a-lifetime chance to take part in a fantastic world event."

Sophie's choice is her source of inspiration

By Ruth McKee

TEENAGERS are seldom at a loss for something to say – but a 17-year-old student was stumped for words when she met her idol for the first time last week.

Student Sophie was bowled over by Yolanda Brown's inspiring story when she first discovered the young saxophonist's music through the annual Black History Month project run by Enfield Youth Offending service.

The project, which is organised in conjunction with Art Start, is aimed at inspiring young people at risk of offending by offering them the chance to celebrate history through art.

Sophie's work, which features a framed clay model of a saxophone in homage to her hero, took hours of endless care and attention to detail – but it was a labour of love for the student, who said: "I love doing pottery in school. I want to go to college next September to do art."

Explaining why she was so inspired by 29-year-old Yolanda, she said: "I like her music, I like the slow songs, I've seen her on clips on YouTube. She's brilliant."

Yolanda said that when Marianna Nicolaou, from the youth offending service, rang her to tell her she had been the inspiration behind Sophie's project, she was thrilled.

"I feel really grateful just to know that what you are offering is being picked up on by people," said Yolanda. "I'm aware of the fact some people might look to me as a role model."

Jazzing it up: Saxophonist Yolanda Brown and 17-year-old Sophie

"The message I would love to get across to young people is that it's important just to know that you can do whatever you put your mind to."

The two-time Mobo Best Jazz award winner was in the middle of a PhD at the University of Kent when her music career took off.

Now, with two masters degrees under her belt, Yolanda is keen to use the platform and influence fame has given her to stress to young people the importance of education.

As a parting gift at the end of their meeting at Millfield House, Yolanda gave Sophie two free tickets to her show at the theatre, in Silver Street, Edmonton, on February 24 and an autographed preview of her debut album, April Showers And May Flowers, which was released on Monday.

Hacker's mum marks ten years since arrest with delivery to No 10

By Mary McConnell

GARY McKinnon's mother was joined by celebrity Trudie Styler as she delivered letters and poems to Number 10 Downing Street last Wednesday to mark the tenth anniversary of the computer hacker's arrest.

Janis Sharp said Gary was in a "terrible state" after fighting a battle against extradition for a decade.

Mr McKinnon hacked into 97 American military computers in 2001 and 2002 and US prosecutors want him to face terrorism charges. If convicted he faces 60 years in jail.

The 45-year-old has been diagnosed with Asperger's syndrome and his lawyers argue that extraditing him would be a breach of his human rights. Mr McKinnon says he should only have to stand trial on computer hacking charges in the UK.

Mrs Sharp said: "This has ruined his life. Gary is very depressed and he sits in the dark - his mental health has really deteriorated. I want us to be able to live again."

Trudie Styler, the wife of pop star Sting, flew over from New York to be with Mrs Sharp as she handed over a letter, poems written by Gary's supporters and a book by Gary Mulgrew, a banker who was extradited to the US in 2006, to David Cameron.

"I am here to support Janis," said Ms Styler. "I have been supporting them for about five years. It is outrageous. It is incredible to me that ten years have gone by and this is still hanging over Gary. What are we doing? We have to say 'no'."

The director of human rights group Liberty Shami Chakrabarti was also at Number 10. She said: "It is astonishing we are still here, despite all the promises made by both parties that are in this coalition government before they were elected."

"It would be a flagrant breach of Gary's human rights to send him to the US and we have got to stand up against this."

Planning Ahead For Peace of Mind

The ENFIELD ADVERTISER

COMMENT

We need to start helping businesses

THE high street in some parts of Enfield is in some dire need of help and, it seems, the shop owners along Green Lanes, in Palmers Green, feel they are suffering more than most.

It is high time that politicians – constantly spouting the rhetoric of “help for small business” really did something to get growth going in our local high streets. Small business rate relief should be just the start of a package of measures that would ease the burden on retailers and get people buying again. Has Mary Portas’ review just been filed on the shelf?

Also something must be done to rid the high street of the scourge of betting shops, which are slowly encroaching on the borough’s shopping districts in increasing numbers.

It is hardly the time to be encouraging gambling, which always leaves punters with less money in their pockets, and it is high time the Gambling Act 2005, which paved the way for betting shops to pop up willy-nilly, was reviewed as well.

...and keep trying to get people in work

PAGE three of this newspaper is a perfect example of how delicate the employment situation in the borough is at this time.

The jobs fair organised, to his credit, by MP Nick de Bois set out to fill 300 vacancies. The fact that more than five times that number visited the fair shows how many people want to get back into work. Hopefully, all those positions were filled with local jobseekers.

But also on that page, union leaders have expressed their fears that jobs may go at The College of Haringey, Enfield and North East London due to budget cuts.

A kick when down for those trying to reduce unemployment in the borough, but they must continue to do all they can to get those out of work in Enfield back into a job.

There will be fireworks during the next election

DEAR David Cameron, Andrew Lansley, Simon Burns and Nick de Bois – keep your tunnel vision stubbornly in place, ignore the public, the British Medical Association and the Royal College of Nursing GPs and nurses, the peers in the House of Lords and others.

Best stick to your friends you know in the private sector, those business chaps who have a vested interest in making a bob or two out of the NHS. Ignore the lack of power to make them behave when they provide cost-cutting, sub-standard care or serious mistakes and ignore others who would tell you otherwise, you know what you are doing.

You must look after all those who claim they can pay cash – well you will probably have to spend a fortune chasing them up afterwards and write off a lot of their debts, because they won’t be expected to pay up front for their treatment, they are far too wily for that.

You know it’s all the fault of all those terrible old people who block the beds, cost a fortune to look after properly, just ignore the fact that they are the ones who have paid in for the services for years for cradle to the grave care, they make great scapegoats.

Oh, subtle thinking is popping up now you can get round this bill – “Drop It and Do It!” Nobody is going to notice that you’re still going ahead with GP commissioning with private companies in control of the purse strings and treatments, allowing them or not, and of course it won’t be noticed if the private patient two per cent cap is lifted to 49 per cent in our few remaining NHS hospitals.

The fireworks at the next election could be a delight to see.

Not all were gang members

TEN boys who were believed to belong to gangs were in the dock at Wood Green Court recently.

The police had spoken to the boys and told them that they should make some changes in their lives.

I am the mother of one of the boys and I believe the message the police sent to the boys was a brilliant idea, the whole thing was very hard-hitting and the idea is to prevent boys from joining gangs.

The only issue I have is that only one boy in the dock was part of a well-known local gang, the rest having been labelled the same although they only live in the area. For the police to have spent a lot of money on this idea, you would have thought they would have sought out real members of gangs.

I am not complaining if this stops my son from ever getting involved. However, a lot of boys have been labelled this way, which may push them closer into the clutches of gang members.

I spoke to one mother whose son was killed and her story was heart-rending.

These hard-hitting approaches could work well but the police must be talking to the right people.

Mr Lavender seems unaware of local impact

IN response to the column by Councillor Lavender, leader of the Enfield Conservative group (Advertiser, February 1), I am astonished that he seems unaware of the devastating effect that the government’s benefits cap plan will have on Enfield.

He acknowledges that one of the consequences of this policy will be that many households reliant on the Local Housing Allowance will have no choice but to move from inner London areas such as Kensington and Chelsea to cheaper rental areas. However, they will not be migrating to Liverpool as he seems to suggest, but to the few affordable areas left in outer London, such as Enfield.

The disastrous effect on Enfield is likely to include increased levels of rent arrears, more debt, rising poverty, overcrowding and more homelessness – a situation exasperated by the government’s refusal to provide new money to increase housing supply.

Furthermore, Enfield’s services will face a massively increased demand for school places and huge additional burdens on social and welfare services, all at a time when government funding is being slashed. Who will pick up the bill?

Councillor Lavender’s total lack of regard for the people of Enfield is compounded by his lack of compassion for the other victims of this new plan.

London Councils estimates that of the 18,645 households in London that will be adversely affected by the proposed caps, 14,661 will be households with children. Moving will not only disrupt their schooling with all associated issues, but the resulting increased levels of overcrowding will inevitably have a detrimental impact on their educational attainment and life chances.

OPINION

Misconceptions about Go Ape!

I READ Mr Street’s letter of February 8 (Enfield Advertiser) but I was more than a little surprised by the misconceptions within the letter.

Firstly, Trent Park and the Go Ape! venture will provide new opportunities for young people in a healthy outdoor environment. The council did extensively consult the friends of the park and this group, like the other friends’ groups throughout the borough, do a great job in promoting, supporting and defending parks. I think it is unfair of the writer to denigrate the work done by these volunteers.

Secondly, Chase Farm Hospital. The writer may be unaware that decisions to downgrade the hospital have been made by the Conservative government, not the local council, who have opposed the proposals consistently.

This is a government decision.

Thirdly, the writer should consider the impact of the government’s economic policies driving out jobs, or its VAT hike, or cuts to child benefit, tax credits, etc.

A drop in retail business is down to these and not parking charges. Real evidence from shopping centres throughout the UK, irrespective of their parking charges, bears this out.

I believe that Enfield Council should be judged on its record and the true facts.

Finally, the writer refers to a proposed development in Cat Hill, which will be determined properly by the council’s planning committee.

This is not a council proposal but a private proposal and must be treated correctly under planning law. That is where the merits of it will be considered.

Doug Taylor
Leader of Enfield Council

...but I don’t like it

GO APE! is owned by Jerome Patrick Burke Mayhew and his brother Tristram Thomas Burke Mayhew.

A little digging into their activities shows that they inevitably encounter opposition to their projects at woodland sites of natural beauty the length and breadth of the land with no sign of remorse and make a fortune out of it.

They deserve to be exposed so that more people are not taken in by them.

Trent Park and its “listed gardens and landscape” in north London are just the latest victims.

Protesters vow to fight on as date is set for park's adventure land to open

By Ruth McKee

A DATE has been set for the public opening of the Go Ape! Tree Top Adventure at Trent Park – despite continued opposition from a vocal group of park users.

The new attraction, which boasts zip wires, Tarzan swings, wooden walkways and an Olympic-themed “five-ring challenge”, is scheduled to be open to the public from March 24. Construction on the controversial adventure site began in January but protests have dogged the building work.

Safety signs have been stolen and handles of building equipment have been smeared with dog faeces in what Go Ape! suspects was a bid to delay the process.

The protests flared after outraged park users claimed that the plans to build the Tree Top Adventure had been rushed through without proper consultation. But business development manager for the adventure company Ben Davies insisted: “Go Ape! has undergone a rigorous tender and planning process to get to where we are.

“We have had support from the local council, The Friends of Trent Park and the local Conservation Advisory Group.”

But despite the company's determination to open the attraction as planned, protesters are adamant they will fight on.

Park user Chris Street, of The Mall, Southgate, believes the campaign will continue beyond the planned opening.

“I think we are going to be opposing it for much longer,” he said.

“There are people in Liverpool who have been campaigning against Go Ape! for more than four years.”

However, despite the growing agitation of protesters, Mr Davies has pledged that the adventure scheme will be a “family activity that Enfield can be proud of, provide real economic benefits to local business and the council and create jobs”.

FIRE CREWS URGE PEOPLE TO GET OUT, STAY OUT AND CALL 999

Firefighters are urging people not to tackle fires in their homes but to get out, stay out and call 999.

A fire in west London in December last year severely damaged a two storey house and fire crews believe the residents delayed in calling the Brigade after trying to tackle it themselves.

Watch Manager Rob Edwards from Acton Fire Station explains:

“We don't think the residents called us straight away but instead they tried to fight the fire themselves. If you have a fire in your home you should always get out, stay out and call 999. Never fight a fire yourself, leave it to the professionals. When we arrived three adults and a child were outside the property but were trying to go back in. Our advice is to never go back in for anything.”

The Brigade has issued the following safety advice:

Do not stop to investigate the fire or to collect valuables or pets.

Use your escape route to get everyone out and meet at an agreed point.

Close any doors which are open, and only open the doors you need to go through. This will help to stop the fire spreading so rapidly.

Check doors with the back of your hand. If a door is warm, don't open it; the fire could be on the other side.

If there is a lot of smoke, crawl along the floor as the air is cleaner.

Once you've got everyone out of the building, call 999 from any phone. Give the operator your name and address.

Don't go back into the building for anything. If there is still someone inside, tell firefighters when they arrive - they will be able to find the person more quickly and safely than you.

Find somewhere safe to wait for the fire brigade. When they arrive, try to give them as much information as possible about the fire and building.

It is vital that you have a smoke alarm to provide you with an early warning of a fire to allow you to escape. Smoke alarms can save lives, but only if they work. Fit them on every level of your home and test them regularly.

London Fire Brigade receive over 200,000 calls each year and attend around 28,000 fires every year. If you want to find out information about the incidents London firefighters attend then follow London Fire Brigade on Twitter @LondonFire. The Brigade tweet about the serious, high profile or unusual incidents we attend across the capital.

ENFIELD is one step closer to spittle-free pavements after the council made a formal approach to the government to ban spitting in the borough's streets.

After initially lobbying the government last year, Enfield Council backed a petition against the habit which was signed by more than 3,000 residents. Following a council debate on the issue a formal approach was made to the government to formalise the area-specific law – which could make the habit illegal on Enfield streets within a month.

The council has submitted its bid to ban the habit to civil servants in government who will advise the council on how to word the draft legislation.

In March the council hopes to vote on the proposed draft wording – making a binding council resolution –

Enfield draws closer to making spitting on area's streets illegal which it will then submit to the secretary of state for communities and local government.

At that stage the authority hopes Eric Pickles will approve the legislation and cabinet member for environment Chris Bond believes the law could be on the statute book by July.

He said: "Spitting is a truly disgusting habit and the vast majority of people are in favour of us banning it. It is now up to the government to decide whether or not we can ban spitting in this borough and I'd urge them to listen to the views of people living here and give us the ability to tackle this foul practice once and for all."

The by-law would ban the "disgusting habit" throughout the borough and would be enforced by litter wardens who issue fines of £80, which if unpaid by the offender could lead to a court ordering a fine of up to £5,000.

Spitting in public was outlawed during the TB epidemic of the 1940s when public health officials believed spittle on the street could spread the disease. However the ban was wiped from the statute book in the 1990s.

Prayers may be outlawed from council agenda

By Ruth McKee

THE council could be forced to strike scheduled prayers off the monthly council meeting agenda after a High Court judge ruled the practice was "unlawful".

In a test case brought by Clive Bone, an atheist councillor from Bideford, Devon, and the National Secular Society, Mr Justice Ouseley hearing the case last week ruled: "The saying of prayers as part of the formal meeting of a council is not lawful under section 111 of the Local Government Act 1972, and there is no statutory power permitting the practice to continue."

While prayers are always on the agenda of Enfield Council meetings the choice of whether or not to pray before meetings is entirely at the discretion of the current mayor.

But leader of the council Doug Taylor admits that some changes might need to be made to the agenda in light of the new ruling.

He told the Advertiser he has asked council officers to look into the ruling to see if the authority would have to alter its monthly agenda drastically. He said: "By the time of the next council meeting we will know – my understanding on the judgment is that prayers cannot be a formal part of the council agenda. That would not preclude the mayor having prayers per se.

"There are not going to be major difficulties but it might mean looking at the agenda again."

But Enfield Council, who does not demand councillors attend prayers, should be safe from the full impact of the law as Mr Justice Ouseley added to his ruling saying: "The saying of prayers in a local authority chamber before a formal meeting of such a body is lawful provided councillors are not formally summoned to attend."

Ruling review: Council leader Doug Taylor

Tenant fined £8,500 for flat sub-let

By Rebecca Sheppard

A COUNCIL tenant who had been illegally sub-letting his flat for three years finally faced prosecution last week.

Yusef Jaelani was taken to court, and was evicted and forced to pay a fine of £8,850. The resident, of Dorset House, in Kettering Road, Enfield Lock, was first granted tenancy of a one-bedroom property in Enfield in 1999, which he lived in for eight years before he began sub-letting it.

Since then, Jaelani has made approximately £12,000 illegally from the eighth-floor residence after secretly relocating to his Dorset House residence.

Mr Jaelani's prosecution comes at a time when the government is proposing to introduce criminal sanctions for council tenants who let out their properties for financial reward rather than returning it to the authority when it is no longer being used as the main and principal home.

Andrew Stafford, Enfield Council's cabinet minister for finance and property, condemned sub-letting council housing as selfish and said it deprived needy families of the opportunity of being re-homed.

"We have thousands of people on our waiting lists and sub-letting a council property betrays each and every one of them," he said.

"This legal action sends out a strong message that we do not tolerate illegal sub-letting of our property and we will take tough action against anyone who does so."

Bakery shortlisted for national award

By Ruth McKee

A COUPLE who opened a bakery after months spent selling bread from their home on Saturday mornings have been shortlisted for a nationwide award.

Richard Copsey, 40, and Kate Smith, 35, who run Holtwhites bakery, risked everything when they quit their day jobs as a Spanish teacher and a social researcher to start their own business and now their blood, sweat and tears have been rewarded with a place on the Telegraph magazine's shortlist of the best independent food shops in Britain.

Ms Smith admitted she was shocked by the accolade and told the Advertiser: "It is quite a big surprise because we are so new here – in fact, we've only been open a few months."

"The shop was really welcomed by the community, which was crying out for good quality local shops."

The couple started out selling their freshly made bread straight from their kitchen, starting out with ten customers. But as word of mouth spread, their customer base kept growing until each weekend around 60 people were turning up to buy bread.

Last year the couple moved from their kitchen into a bakery in Chase Side, Enfield.

"It was a bit scary – we have a three-year-old and a six-year-old – so it was a bit of a risk," admitted Kate. "But we felt fairly confident because there had been a perfect little bakery on the site for 100 years that had just closed down. We said this is the time – it's now or never."

Kate claims the secret of the shop's success lies in its family-run, feel-good vibe. She said: "It is very much a family business and our customers can actually see where the bread is being made."

"And we have very lovely customers – we have built up a really good relationship with them. We have some people who come in once a day, every day, and those who come in at the weekend – maybe to put together a really nice lunch."

A judging panel made up of Telegraph magazine columnists including "Queen of Shops" Mary Portas are currently testing out the shortlisted shops and the winners will be announced at an awards ceremony in central London on February 22.

Author returns 'home' for book signing event

By Mary McConnell

A CHILDREN'S author who grew up in Enfield is to return to the borough for a book signing at Waterstone's on Saturday.

Ellie Daines is to sign copies of her book Lolly Luck from 11.30am until 2pm at the book shop in Church Street, Enfield Town.

Ellie, who went to Southbury Primary School, in Swansea Road, Ponders End, is a trained journalist and has worked for a number of marketing companies, but she has now decided to try her hand at writing – Lolly Luck is her first novel.

"I grew up here in Enfield," said Ellie, who now lives in Whetstone, Barnet. "It was while I was at Southbury that my love for writing began."

"I always aspired to become an author and I had some brilliant teachers, particularly my Year 4 teacher Mrs Taylor. The teachers were always very encouraging and helped me develop the self-belief that I could one day achieve my dream of becoming a published author."

"I was an only child so from an early age I learned how to make the most of my imagination and would write lots of short stories in my spare time."

"If people are familiar with Jacqueline Wilson or Cathy Cassidy then my books are very similar to those stories."

According to Ellie, Lolly Luck is the story of a little girl who always wins magazine competitions, scratch cards and any game she can think of. But when her dad loses his job and then the family home Lolly's luck starts to run out.

Ellie has already built up a strong fan base through the use of social media such as Twitter but hopes that she will meet new fans on Saturday.

Core Exercise Clinic

A gym with a difference

Does the thought of working out in a normal gym put you off getting fit and healthy? Have you had or do you currently suffer with an injury or illness that prevents you from exercising? Well Core Exercise Clinic can help. The clinic is an adult only environment specialising in providing a high level of expert support to help you achieve your health, medical or fitness goals.

A Place of Calm

Everything at the clinic has been designed to help you feel relaxed and comfortable; there are no bright lights, loud pumping music, mirrors or 'posers' wearing lycra! The key concept is that the clinic be a place of calm; a non intimidating, non-judgmental and stress-free environment.

A Place of Expertise

The clinic provides every member with their very own Core Expert. Initial health and lifestyle testing and assessments allow your Core Expert to design a tailor-made programme that suits health, medical and lifestyle needs. All our Core Experts are specialists in exercise allowing them to work with a range of clients; from those who are training for a marathon, toning up or losing weight to those who have had a knee replacement or a heart attack.

A Place of Support

At the clinic, your goals become our goals and the best way for you to achieve them is with support. Your Core Expert and the team are here to support you every step of the way; whether you're struggling with certain exercises, finding it difficult to make time or lack motivation to exercise your core expert will work with you to find a solution.

We understand that everyone is unique and therefore needs support and guidance in different areas and ways to succeed. At the Core Exercise Clinic you're not just a number, we will strive to get you to where you want to be!

Doug Taylor

Leader of Enfield Council

Initiative focused on gang violence made powerful impression

SERIOUS violence committed by and against young people is a matter of major concern for the whole community and it is something the council takes extremely seriously.

Earlier this month Enfield Council and its partners showed it was in the forefront of tackling gang violence by holding the first ever gang "call-in" held in England and Wales.

The "call-in" process involves known gang members attending court and being warned about their criminality and behaviour by police, judges, the probation service, community leaders and surgeons.

They were also addressed by the parents of young people who had died as a result of gang-related violence.

The parents spoke about how the death of a child had affected their families, while former gang members also talked about their experiences of gang life.

The whole event was incredibly powerful and had a noticeable effect on the young people sitting in the dock.

The aim is to offer young people a way out and everyone who attended the session - voluntarily - was given a number to ring if they wanted our help.

We would give them access to all the services to help them make a more positive contribution to society.

A number of young people have already got in touch seeking our help.

For those people who don't, Enfield Council is determined to work with its partners - including the Metropolitan Police, which launched its own massive gang clampdown last week - to track down and take the toughest possible action against gang members and their families.

Recently, a 19-year-old gang member became the first in the UK to be jailed for breaching a gang injunction obtained by our legal team and the police.

Crime is dropping in Enfield, but I know it remains residents' highest priority.

That is why we are working extremely hard to do everything we can to make our streets safer for everybody.

It is what our communities demand and what they deserve.

Howard Medwell

Leftside

We're all in this together when it comes to getting the best out of teachers

TORY education secretary Michael Gove probably thinks he's on to a vote-winner with his new proposals for speeding up the sacking process for "incompetent" teachers.

Any education minister, however loopy, can expect a growl of public approval by indulging in a spot of teacher-bashing.

Human learning processes, especially those of children, are an extremely complex field of scientific study. The social and cultural problems that influence the effectiveness of schooling are similarly complex.

But if you can't be bothered with all these complexities, it's much more satisfying to focus your anger on one easy, traditional target - the teacher.

Over the past 20 or 30 years, we've got used to seeing everything in terms of competition and individual excellence.

We are happy when we see some grey-suited nonentity in the City pocketing a million-pound bonus. We believe it when we're told that he possesses special qualities which lesser mortals cannot offer.

As for the teaching profession, politicians of all parties agree about what needs to be done.

Why - sack all the jaded, cynical clock-watchers (each one of whom is single-handedly ruining our children's chances!) and replace them with young, energetic, charismatic superteachers.

During my own teaching career, I was more effective at some times than at others.

I was at my best when I was part of a mutually supportive team. I shaped up less well when I was having to contend with bullying bosses or when I didn't get the opportunity to plan and debrief with my colleagues.

Most teachers are neither charismatic supermen or women nor jaded clock-watchers, just ordinary human beings.

Teachers teach best the way children learn best - in a collaborative environment, where you're not constantly looking over your shoulder to see who is better or worse at it than you.

Bodens brings Princess tale to the stage

ONE of the biggest productions in Bodens Studios' 40-year history is coming to the Wylyotts Theatre, in Potters Bar, this week.

A brand new musical version of Francis Hodgson Burnett's novel A Little Princess, written by the theatre company's youth director Adam Boden and seasoned theatre writer Marc Folan, is being brought to life by a cast of 100 – all of whom are Bodens' students aged between six and 19. The cast of the show has even recorded an album, which went live on iTunes this week, featuring its music and songs.

According to Adam: "We have high standards and aspirations and are always pushing the boundaries of youth theatre and the process of learning of our productions, not just the end product.

"The kids have had an amazing experience working on the show, recording the album and spending a week away from home living as Victorian schoolchildren at a youth conference centre at St Mark's, in Saffron Walden, Essex. It's an old Victorian school and we had about 36 girls aged six to 13 living there and going to classes for five days.

A Little Princess tells the story of Sara, who is sent from India to boarding school in England by her father Captain Crewe.

Adam said that children from schools across the country are set to come and see the show with a view to performing it themselves.

Bodens, based in Barnet and Enfield, run classes alongside school term dates and have students aged two-and-a-half to 19.

A Little Princess runs until Saturday. Shows will be at 7.30pm each night and there will be additional matinee performances on Friday and Saturday at 3pm.

Tickets are £12/£10. The box office is on 020 8447 0909 or online at www.bodens.co/shop

Star role: Lucie Wolfman stars as the Little Princess at the Wylyotts Theatre

Chickenshed showcases write stuff

CHICKENSHEDED'S emerging writers will be showcasing their work with a week of nightly shows at the Southgate Theatre's studio.

The writers are all currently being nurtured through the Chickenshed Writers' Group and each evening there will be a diverse array of pieces, ranging from off-beat comedy to social drama and from physical theatre to poignant stories.

Among the 20-minute performances each night will be Disturbance, by Ashley Maynard, a play featuring three characters who are offered the chance to express their reasons for taking part in last summer's riots.

Alley Cats, by Emma Balaam, is a tale set in London's red-light district as the audience is given a glimpse into the lives of six working girls.

Removed, by Mark Lees, sees two removal men stumble on to something that takes them on an unexpected journey. The performance uses a fusion of styles – silent movies, clowning and physical theatre – to unravel a charming story.

The night will also feature Michael Gavas' Bromance and There's No Tomorrow, by Paul Harris.

Go to www.chickenshed.org.uk to book tickets.

Could you adopt for Enfield?

You could make a difference to a child...

Every year, there are thousands of children throughout the UK needing a new permanent family. In Enfield we have children from many different backgrounds, cultures and religions and we need new families to reflect this. Children may be placed for adoption as single children or they may need to be placed with their brothers or sisters.

Enfield Adoption Service will ensure families get all the information and support they need both before and after adoption. Adopting is about making a real difference to a child's life.

We understand it's a complex subject and that the decision to adopt is a huge one that can't be taken lightly.

So at all times we aim to be honest, balanced and provide you with a clear picture of what to expect.

To find out more call 020 8379 8490 or email adoption@enfield.gov.uk or visit www.enfield.gov.uk

 Fridays 12noon-2.30pm

INSTEAD of letting unwanted food from supermarkets go to waste, a pioneering charity is using it to cook fabulous meals.

Thanks to FoodCycle, surplus produce from the Haringey Sainsbury's in Green Lanes, Budgens in Crouch End and fruit and veg sellers in Stroud Green Road is collected up every week before finding its way into delicious lunches, served to the public at Mind's Haringey base in Stapleton Hall Road, Haringey, every Friday lunchtime.

FoodCycle came to life in 2009 when a cafe in King's Cross was used as a base from which to serve meals – made from unwanted food from farmers' markets – to a music charity for homeless people.

Then, in October 2010, FoodCycle set up its cafe from which it serves dishes including mushroom, cheese and tomato pasta bake and Indian roasted vegetables with beetroot-topped dahl and rice. Among other treats on the menu is a rich chocolate cake, made with a donation of Green & Black's chocolate.

Initially charged £4, customers are now asked to leave whatever they think the food is worth and, according to Steven Hawkes, FoodCycle's fundraising manager, the move has paid dividends, with people tending to be much more generous when not told how much to pay.

"There are lots of ideas behind FoodCycle," said Steven. "It is about making use of resources, using surplus food and empty kitchens, reducing food waste, tackling food poverty and bringing people together. Many people who come here may be quite elderly and isolated and this is a place for them to come and meet others. We have big tables so people can come and sit together and make friends."

"These big companies are happy for us to come and get the food. We are saving them money because they would otherwise have to pay for it to be taken away."

For more information, visit the www.foodcycle.org.uk website.

Stories from Around The World

Theatre fun: Skewbald launches their collection of shows for youngsters

SURPRISE tales from all over the globe are being brought to the Dugdale Centre for the first time this week, as Skewbald Theatre launches their new collection of shows for young audiences.

Featuring exciting and delightful folktales, Skewbald's Stories From Around The World will be brought to life using all the usual magical ingredients of drama, music, song, puppetry and animation that you would expect from the Enfield-based theatre group.

The show, which features characters such as Clever Baker, King Of The Fairies, Ngede The Honeyguide Bird and Lazy Jack, starts on Thursday and will run until June, at the venue in London Road, Enfield. And every month the theatre company will put on a new story from a different country.

According to Skewbald's artistic director Hayley Byfield, these stories can be enjoyed by both children and adults alike. "These performances are fun and very interactive," she said. "We invite the children to help up tell parts of the stories and help the larger-than-life characters on their journeys. The tales are best shared so we hope lots of people will join us in telling them."

The shows will run on Thursday February 16, Friday February 17, and Saturday February 25 at 10am and 11.30am.

There will also be shows on March 24, April 28, May 26 and June 6 and 7.

FIRST-TIME BUYER RELIEF MAINTAINED AT THE ADMIRAL COLLECTION, STEVENAGE

Whilst the first-time buyer relief on stamp duty for properties under the £250,000 purchase price will be scrapped on 24th March 2012, Explore Living has stated that it is prepared to cover the stamp duty for first-time buyers at The Admiral Collection, Stevenage, providing first time buyers with a helping hand on the property ladder.

John Inglis, Sales and Marketing Director for Explore Living commented: "it is hard enough in this economic environment for anyone to get their foot onto the property ladder. The average age of the first-time buyer is now 37 years and the bank of "Mum and Dad" has been squeezed as much as anyone else.

First-time buyers are the lifeblood of the property market, which is why we have determined that post 24th March, we will settle the stamp duty on properties priced under £250,000, which are purchased by first-time buyers subject to terms and conditions."

To further help first-time buyers, Explore Living is also offering its Route 85 scheme at The Admiral Collection, Stevenage. The Route 85 purchasing plan is open to first-time buyers, and enables them to own their own home outright. The 15 per cent share is funded by Explore Living as an interest-free loan to the buyers for up to 10 years. All new home buyers need is a minimum deposit of five per cent of the property's value that they are interested in and an additional £1000 to reserve their home, some terms and conditions do apply and Route 85 is subject to availability. Explore Living can even put buyers in touch with a mortgage broker who can help arrange a mortgage for the remaining 80 per cent of the value of the property.

The Admiral Collection comprises of just ten superbly designed two and three bedroom houses in an ideal location. Each property boasts a high internal specification with a garage, gardens and dedicated parking. Explore Living also recently launched the new two bedroom show home at the development which is open for viewings Thursday - Monday 10am - 5pm.

Prices start from £237,995 - £269,995. Why instruct Us?

Sales

- We use professionally produced photographs, floorplans and animated slideshow to ensure that buyers see the potential in your property.
- We provide a FREE EPC on every property we sell on a sole agency instruction
- As well as appearing on our new state of the art website your property will be featured as a premium listing on rightmove.co.uk

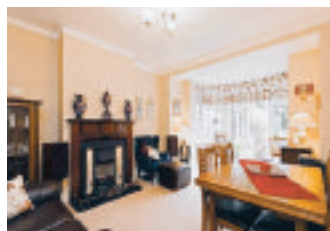

Lettings

- To guarantee you an honest and professional service we are accredited members of the RICS, ARLA and The Property Ombudsman scheme.
- To ensure that your let runs smoothly our dedicated and highly experienced management team are able to offer you the very best package to suit your needs.
- All viewings of your property will be accompanied to safeguard your security and allow us to gain immediate feedback.

Property tips

Your home will look so much more inviting if the rooms are bright. Open all the window coverings, turn on lights and brighten dark rooms by adding a few free standing lamps. Turn the TV off during viewings as this is a distraction.

Full beam ahead with Leon's leading lights

By Iain Dooley

DO VOLVO drivers have a moral responsibility to save us mere mortals from the dangers of full beam headlights? I ask because since running the Leon I've been regularly flashed by owners of said Swedish cars.

Their collective concern is misplaced, however, as I'm no hooligan and the Leon's xenon headlights are always dipped for oncoming traffic although they're darn bright even before you give the indicator stalk a nudge and ask for full beam ahead.

One person's main beam is another's (mine) efficient headlight. They also help you see around corners, which is great on dark country roads and poorly lit urban streets.

Along with its funky blue paint, the Leon's xenon headlights are extra cost options, but when so much other kit comes as standard the car's modest asking price gives you the headroom to spend a little more with a clear conscience.

And enough miles have passed under the Leon's wheels to be able to form a sensible opinion of its on-road performance. On paper at least, in 1.2 TSI petrol guise you'd be forgiven for thinking it wasn't exactly a ball of fire – and you'd be right if you just concentrated on the car's raw figures. The reality is different and this plucky Leon's turbo petrol motor is surprisingly gutsy.

For a self-confessed fan of all things diesel, it's been a refreshing change to get into a car that's not going to rattle your bones every morning from a stone-cold start and accompany your every move with a bass-heavy thrum regardless of your speed.

It might not be the sweetest-sounding petrol engine on the planet but its crisp throttle response and near absence of turbo whistle compensate adequately.

The negative "small car, big engine" perception is banished once you start to make progress in the Leon. The modest petrol motor is willing to rev and, combined with a slick manual gearshift, it's surprisingly easy to build up speed.

Regarding the manual gearbox, it's obvious that sixth is a cruising ratio as maintaining a steady pace on long inclines often requires a shift down to fifth. A diesel equivalent would sail up the hill in top gear thanks to its extra slug of torque, but there's that trade-off – more noise, less refinement – to consider.

Frankly, it's no hardship with such a pleasing gearshift. On the flipside, the more closely stacked interme-

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980. 2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative. To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', 'IT' etc. in the advertisement. 3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

(a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
(b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
(c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed. 5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage. 6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication. 7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority. 9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears. 10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order. 11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions. 12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company. 13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. (2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability. 15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date. 16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher. 17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request. 18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers
Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies. Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities. Holiday & Travel Category
All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted. Data Protection
The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors. Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes. Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

1. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Council of the London Borough of Enfield (the Council) has approved, under section 23 of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984, changes to the zebra pedestrian crossing in Cannon Hill N14, north of Cannon Road N14. The extent of the two zebra crossings, which replaces the single zebra crossing, including the associated zig-zag markings (which would prohibit all vehicles from stopping on them for any reason at all times) would be as specified in the Schedule to this Notice.
2. A copy of the plan showing the location of the proposed crossings, together with other relevant documents can be inspected at the Reception Desk, "B" Block, the Civic Centre, Silver Street, Enfield, Middlesex EN1 3XD during normal office hours on Mondays to Fridays inclusive.
3. Persons who want to make any representations in respect of the proposed crossings should write to the Operations Manager Traffic and Transportation, the Civic Centre, Silver Street, Enfield, Middlesex EN1 3XD, quoting the reference T/TG52/1151, by 7th March 2012.
4. Under the Local Government (Access to Information) Act 1985, any letter you write to the Council in response to this Notice may be available to the press and to the public, who would be entitled to take copies of it if they so wished.

REDKNAPP IN DEMAND

Wanted man: Tottenham Hotspur boss Harry Redknapp is the overwhelming favourite to take over as the new manager of England

By Dominique Stafford

HARRY REDKNAPP has pledged to stay with Tottenham Hotspur until at least the end of the season despite being the firm favourite to become the new England manager.

Redknapp has received almost universal backing to take charge of the national team ever since Fabio Cappello quit last Wednesday evening – just hours after the Spurs boss was found not guilty on two charges of tax evasion.

But, despite all the speculation, Redknapp insists that he is fully focused on life at White Hart Lane.

"I'd be very surprised if I didn't finish the season with Tottenham," he said. "I haven't thought about not being here at the end of the season, and I've got no idea why I shouldn't."

"If it ever happened and I got the offer you'd have to consider that, but at the moment I'm just focusing purely on Tottenham."

"I'm not just going to leave them in the lurch. The fans have been great to me since I've been here and I've enjoyed every minute at Tottenham. It's gone well for me here and I think we appreciate each other."

However, Redknapp has admitted that he is flattered to have been linked with the England job and has indicated that he would seriously consider taking on the role if it was offered to him.

"It is nice that people put me in a position where they think I've got a chance of the job," he said. "It's flattering."

"Other managers have come out and said nice things and I appreciate everybody's support in everything that has happened in my life in the last little spell."

"At my age I have to do what's right for me. Whatever decision, my family will come first now. If the opportunity comes I will look at it then."

"England have got great players, it's about getting the best out of them."

Meanwhile, Tottenham's players have made clear their desire for Redknapp to remain at the club, with skipper Ledley King leading the calls for him to stay at White Hart Lane.

"As a group of players we love him, and hopefully he will stay," King said. "This sort of speculation always happens in football, but we would love to keep him."

"Harry has brought the club on massively. We were bottom of the league when he first came in and the results picked up immediately."

"Straightaway he showed his people skills and his ability to lift players even when their confidence was low. It has been really good."

Saha delighted by his stunning start

LOUIS SAHA admitted that his move to Tottenham Hotspur had given him a new lease of life after he played a starring role on his first start for the club.

The striker – who has been plagued by a succession of injury problems in recent years – was a shock arrival from Everton on transfer deadline day last month, but he wasted little time in showing the White Hart Lane faithful exactly why Harry Redknapp brought him to the club by scoring twice in Saturday's 5-0 demolition of Newcastle United.

The former Manchester United and Everton forward linked up to devastating effect with strike partner Emmanuel Adebayor, who scored the final goal after being heavily involved in the build-up to the first four, and Saha revealed his delight at how the match went.

"It was a great, great feeling," he said. "I am not that young, but it's just like I was living the dream of a young boy – to make your debut and score on your home ground is just amazing."

"From the first minute I felt so confident. There is so much quality here, the desire is unbelievable."

"To score after five minutes was a brilliant start. Newcastle are a difficult team but it was an open game and we scored early, it was great to be on the end of a great move. Overall, it was a brilliant performance, a real joy."

"Adebayor was immense. Physically, his work-rate and desire to get involved in everything was great. It's dead easy to play with him, and he is a great character to be around."

Saha added: "It's great to work for Harry. He gives you so much confidence. He has a desire to win things. You can see it in his eyes."

"He is right up there with the best managers, because he gets more than 100 per cent from every player."

"I've just been here for a few weeks, but I've seen a rise in confidence and already improved. I owe him a lot."

Skolars clash falls victim to cold snap

THE London Skolars' season got off to a frustrating start as their opening match in the Northern Rail Cup fell victim to the cold snap.

The Skolars had been scheduled to begin their campaign by hosting French outfit Toulouse Olympique at the New River Stadium on Sunday, but Thursday night's snowfall on an already frozen pitch led to the contest being called off 48 hours in advance.

Howard Kramer, Skolars' general manager, said: "Given that we had the mildest December and January in memory, it's ironic that the bad weather should arrive at the start of the season."

"The temperature barely rose above freezing all week, and Thursday night's weather meant there was no chance that the last of the snow still remaining from the previous weekend would melt."

"Both sides would have liked to play the game. Toulouse are involved in several competitions at home and over here."

"They were due to fly over on Saturday and, with the current state of the pitch and the forecasts for continued cold weather, it would have been unfair to have them come over in the hope that conditions might improve in the next 48 hours."

The match has yet to be rearranged, while the Skolars are now due to begin their Northern Rail Cup campaign at Batley Bulldogs on Sunday (2.30pm).
